DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 – 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential structural cooperative relationships of elements and necessary elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the necessary structural connections. The claims fail to set forth sufficient structure to define a functioning device. There is no proof that oscillation means (whatever that may be), a box for storing and an optical catalyst serve any function, let alone will produce a laser beam. Therefore, since there clearly an omission of necessary elements, there must exist gaps between the missing and the listed elements.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 – 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Terai JP 8-32151

A (herein after known as Terai) in view of Holcombe et al. US 4,261,753 (herein after known as Holcombe).

Art Unit: 2828

The instant invention is deemed to be a combination of limitations already well known and used in the art. Terai teaches in Fig. 9 and his translated abstract a laser oscillation means 5a and 5b. A box for storing the laser oscillation means is denoted by reference numeral 1. Also located in the box is a cooling means 9. Located between the oscillation means and the cooling means is an optical catalyst 11, which can also be considered a collector since it removes material from the gas that impedes favorable lasing conditions. Terai fails to teach a graphitized material in the box. However, Holcombe teaches a graphitized material in extremely corrosive environments; see the summary of his invention. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Terai as taught by Holcombe since it is known that graphitized materials are resistive to hydrogen-fluorine environments.
